MILLIONS FOUR FOR LOAN

Henry B. Endicott, Heaviest
Buyer Today, Taking Million
Dollars' Worth of Notes

Word was sent out from Victory Loan headquarters today that instead of giving $2 a week on a $50 Victory note, subscribers will be asked to pay only $1 weekly for forty-eight weeks, after an initial payment of $2. In the fourth loan payments of $2 on $50 bonds were $2 down and $2 a week for twenty-four weeks. By the terms of the present loan a subscriber has twice as long in which to pay for his bonds.

Millions of dollars began to pour into New England Victory Loan headquarters today from individuals and societies, the biggest individual subscription coming from Henry B. Endicott of Boston, who contracted through Hornblower & Weeks for $1,000,000 of Victory Liberty Notes.

Nine financial organizations in Greater Boston organized an aggregate of more than $1,000,000 as soon as the bonds were open for business. Other New England groups are buying heavily. Individual subscriptions are reported both numerous and large.

The following institutions made Victory loan pledges early today:
John Hancock Mutual Life, $2,000,000
New England Mutual Life, $1,000,000
Provident Institution for Savings, $2,000,000
Home Savings Bank, $1,000,000
Union Institution for Savings, $1,000,000
Boston Life Insurance Co., $500,000
Boston Fire and Marine Insurance Co., $500,000
Boston Savings Bank, $500,000

U. S. HEROES OF PIVALE IN BIG NEW YORK PARADE

New York, April 21.—New York gave a salute reception today to the 252 Infantry Regiment, heroes of the Pivale River fighting and the only American troops that were engaged with the Italian army. The Governors of three States, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania, reviewed the parade on Fifth avenue. The Ohio and Pennsylvania boys were returning from other States to march in the parade.

The Ohio boys were among the thousands that cheered the march.

Patriotism of Peace Means "Subscribe to Victory Loan," Says Glass

Washington, April 21.—Secretary of the Treasury Glass today issued this final appeal to the people to get behind the loan:

"Four Liberty Loans have gone over the top. Our country's appeal to its men and women to make the last great war popular issue of government obligations—the Victory Liberty Loan—an overwhelming success reaches every corner of our country today, and I feel sure that the patriotism of peace will find an expression in this loan no less effectively than the patriotism of war in other loans.

"The great battle for liberty and democracy is over and victory is won; but let us not forget that all the boys who made this victory possible are not yet home, and that the wounded must be rehabilitated and cared for."

"A world is to be rebuilt, and in the rebuilding America is playing a tremendous part, and America's part is your part and my part, the part of every man, woman and child in America."

3 SAILORS HELD ON PHONE RIOT CHARGES

Three sailors charged with rioting on Mill street near the telephone company building Friday night last were today arraigned before Judge Murray in the Municipal Court, when their bail was increased and they were ordered held for trial on Friday.

The three were Worth Howard, John Springer and Clarence R. Christ, aged eighteen, nineteen and twenty-one respectively. Howard was charged with rioting and assault on a police officer. Springer and Christ were charged with rioting and assault on a police officer.

Sergeant Michael Sullivan and Patrolman Sullivan, with Special Officer Manning, were in court ready to tell how the three sailors "rioted" in the telephone building.

A member of the service guard in the courtroom stated that the three sailors were held for rioting and assault on a police officer.

It was said that the trouble was precipitated by three young women messengers from the Mayor's office who had an errand in the telephone building and who were mistaken for strike-breakers.

U. S. CLERGYMAN
SENTENCED IN KOREA

Washington, April 21.—Rev. Ed Miller Morry, a Presbyterian minister, who was recently arrested in Korea on a charge of aiding and abetting anti-Japanese propaganda, has been sentenced to six months in jail, the State Department was advised today through Tokyo.

He was found guilty of distributing circulars. The trial was held at Seoul.

Italy Causes Peace Crisis

Report Extra Session May Be Called on May 12

Paris, April 21.—President Wilson has definitely decided to call a special session of the American Congress probably May 12, the summons being sent from France, it was learned today. It is now generally expected that the President will be unable to appear before Congress with the necessary majority for ratification by the Senate.

The President may return to the United States on the transatlantic ship George Washington. He has ordered the George Washington to return to America with him and in the meantime the Arizona will remain at Brest awaiting further orders.

Orlando and Sonning Likely to Reject Treaty Unless Claims Are Recognized

Rome, April 21.—Premier Orlando and Senator Sonnino will not ratify the peace treaty unless Italy's territorial claims are recognized, the newspaper Politico Romano stated today.

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, April 21.—The Italian-Lugoslavian dispute over Fiume, which has already threatened to precipitate another armed clash in southwestern Europe, was taken up today by Premier Lloyd George, Premier Clemenceau and Premier Orlando.

The meeting of the Big Four was called off and President Wilson did not attend the session of the peace conference. The only person who is laboring to reach a decision that will not only be satisfactory to the parties to the dispute but to the United States as well.

It is freely admitted that the latest developments in the Italian situation are fraught with the gravest danger, inasmuch as Austria is no longer a solidified nation.

The fate of Fiume has loomed up as a question of international importance. The principal improvements were hospital and sanitary facilities. Mr. Derrick scored the practice of putting two inmates into one cell, and deplored the absence of religious services.

On recommendation of Calvin Derrick, a recent investigator of conditions at Charles Street Jail, the Finance Commission has requested of Mayor Peters an appropriation of $150,000 for necessary improvements.

A previous recommendation called for $125,000.

Food Will Save Us, Says Scheidemann

Berlin, via London, April 21.—Germany is in no danger of a successful Bolshevik counter-revolution nor a return of the former Kaiser to the throne, according to Chancellor Philipp Scheidemann, in an exclusive interview granted the International News Service today.

Scheidemann has been the chief spokesman of President Ebert in foreign German affairs since the ex-emperor was deposed. He issued a warning, however, that unrest may become a real danger unless the German people get food and work.

"The danger of a counter-revolution is inconsequential in comparison with the danger of lack of food and work," said the premier. "The soldiers' and workers' councils are not dangerous if the government assigns them food tasks, and if the foundation of pure German democracy is not abandoned."

"The recent outrage of soldiers' and workers' councils considered this when they left the rights of Parliament intact and recommended that the powers of the councils be confined only to purely economic functions."

The ministerial movement is insignificant. The ex-Kaiser is considered really disposed of. But I see no reason why he should not be permitted to live in Germany. He never could be dangerous to the new democracy and even the monarchists don't want him back on the throne. There are many kings, princes and dukes living in Germany."

ORIGINAL MAIL PLANES TO FLY ON ANNIVERSARY

Washington, April 21.—The first anniversary of the postal air mail service will be observed May 12, when a special mail plane will fly from New York to Washington, D. C., and return.

The same six planes with a record of 200 flying hours in the past, will be equipped with the same engines, will make anniversary flights. Lieutenant J. C. Edwards, who was in command of the first mail plane, will fly from New York to Washington, D. C., and return.

BURLESON BEATEN BY OPERATORS

During a stormy meeting at the Grand Opera House today the striking telephone operators ratified the action of their strike committee accepting the terms of the offer made by J. C. Koons, Assistant Postmaster-General, and officials of the New England Telephone Company, and voted to return to work. Hundreds of the girls returned to work this afternoon. Telephone service should be normal within a few hours.

Hundreds of girls who went into today's meeting declaring they would "get $22 or nothing," voted to accept the compromise offer of $3 less per week. President Julia S. O'Connor, who won over the more than 3,000 girl strikers, many of whom were hostile to her at the beginning of the meeting, was still their idol when it was all over and, the automobile which bore her away from the hall was followed by a cheering throng.

"We have beaten Burleson, anyway," was the statement in which scores of the operators found satisfaction. The girls struck for a maximum of $22 per week at the end of four years. The company granted $19 at the end of seven years, an increase of $3, with proportionate increases for terms of service between. Beginners were raised from $8 to $10.

The strikers also won the right to deal directly with William R. Driver, Jr., general manager of the company, and "voluntarily bargaining" was recognized, they claimed.

The session lasted two hours. The strikers were in perfect agreement, according to President Julia S. O'Connor. Some of the girls stated that it took the evening of the strike, the strikers and the management board to persuade the girls that the terms were the best the company could offer.

VOYAGE WAS UNANIMOUS.
The vote to accept the terms was unanimous and was taken shortly after the meeting opened. Miss O'Connor stated after the meeting: "The discussion was on the line the strikers would return to work."

A group of operators leaving the hall were followed by a cheering throng.

"FLYING CIRCUS" HERE APRIL 24 AND 25
Mineola, N. Y., April 21.—A flying circus of five aeroplanes, commanded by Major Edward Lyon, left Hazelhurst Field today to fly upstate to boost the Victory Loan. Two other circuses are to leave the field on the same mission this week. One is due in Springfield, Mass., April 23; Boston, April 24 and 25; Worcester, April 25; Hartford, April 27; New Haven, April 28.

SHIPBUILDER POET
IN THE VICTORY SING
By Byron Verge of Portland, Me., the "Shipbuilder Poet" will sing the latest composition, the American Soldier's March Song, at the Victory Sing in Tremont Temple tomorrow evening. This will be the first presentation.

APPEAL TO MEDICAL SERVICE TO REMAIN IN SERVICE
Washington, April 21.—An appeal to enlisted men of the Medical Corps to remain in the service to care for the sick and wounded was made by Surgeon General M. W. Freeman today. So many men of the corps are about to discharge that the Surgeon General stated there will be a serious shortage if they will take advantage of the opportunity to quit his service.

The appeal concludes: "The medical service is the backbone of the army. It is the duty of every man in the medical service to remain in the service to care for the sick and wounded."

HEAR PHONE RATE CASE
Washington, April 21.—The Supreme Court of the United States this afternoon heard the case of the National Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company against the Federal Trade Commission. The case involves the authority of the Federal Trade Commission to regulate the rates of telephone service in interstate commerce.

ENIGOTT BUYS $1,000,000 IN V NOTES

their claims, subscribed for $1,000,000 worth of notes.

Wire reports showed that cities outside of New England were taking hold hard. From New York came the announcement that the Central Savings Bank had subscribed $250,000, and that the General Motors Corporation had offered $500,000.

From Washington, announcement was made that President Woodrow Wilson had subscribed to $500,000 of Victory notes, and Philadelphia reported that the Baldwin Locomotive Works had taken a $1 million.

TOOK OUT THE TOP

The first organization to file a subscription was the Union of John B. Bates, of America, Pawtucket, R. I. for Hingham. This fraternal society has made a subscription on the first day of each one of the Liberty Loans and in all holds today $150,000 worth of bonds and notes.

The first town in New England to actually go over the top was Orleans, N. H., with a quota of $4,000.

The second town was that of Princeton, Vt., the home town of the State chairman of Vermont, Edmund H. Morris. The quota is $144,000, and the subscription reported was $100,000.

It opened $178,000, 200 per cent. over-subscribed. This comes from 12,071 individuals in a population of 23,071, or 15 per cent. on the first day.

It has an indication of the way the Fifth Loan is starting in New England as a most remarkable showing.

The third town on the list was Fryeburg, Me., which had a quota of $100,000. It was the first town to go over the top in the first hour and sent word that the war relief train assigned to tour Maine.

It was that State Chairman Morris, who has announced the intention of State organization to clear up the quota in the first three days and as the returns appeared on the opening day the prospect for accomplishing this looked very favorable.

Middleton was the next Connecticut municipality to report securing a quota of $1,017,000 and $1,000,000 more to spare.

Rockport, Me., was the first in Knox County in that state to go over the top.

In New Hampshire, Brentwood and Merrimack were the first to go over their quota.

MIST RAISES $1,000,000.

The quota assigned to the six New England States for the Liberty Loan are as follows:

Massachusetts	$261,524,400
Connecticut	$250,000,000
Rhode Island	$1,500,000
Maine	$123,450,000
New Hampshire	$1,579,400
Vermont	$2,512,000

New England is $375,000,000 over the New England States today set aside to the task of over-subscribing their quota.

In Boston that the first gun in the England campaign was fired, and was literally true.

Shells were fired on Boston Common as the big street parade broke up and a crowd of Liberty Loan committees gathered to see the parade.

The Victory Loan parade from the State House to the State House was led by a squad of police, and immediately behind them came two snorting whippet tanks, each with a wreathed "V" vehicle in its camouflage.

The tanks were followed by the navy band and by nearly 150 members of the Liberty Loan committee of New England, men and women. They carried at their head a poster announcing "The Liberty Loan committee of New England practices what it preaches—Buy early."

CANNON ROAR.

The "Avenue Victorious," that portion at Tremont street between Park street and Boylston, was decorated with the national colors, Victory Loan banners and more than 600 flags of the allied nations.

The breaking up of the parade at Liberty Court was the signal for the discharge of five cannons on the Common, and as the last salute was heard the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" while soldiers and civilians stood at attention. While the national air was being played hundreds of other flags were unfurled along the "Avenue Victorious."

Charles A. Morse, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, was the first speaker from the platform in Liberty Court. He declared that the workers in the New England field had all practiced their own advice to "buy early," and urged that all his hearers do likewise.

MAYOR TRIGGS BEYING.

He was followed by Mayor Peters, who spoke along the same line, urging that a prompt over-subscription would be the best testimony to the boys who did the fighting and made the real sacrifice.

Immediately following Mayor Peters remarks, the members of the New England committee turned in

"Subscribe Today!" Says Message From Germany

The following message, dated at Treves, Germany, from Lieutenant Charles D. Voorhis of Brookline, who fought with the famous Second Division and was the only officer still with Company K of the 23d Infantry after the battle of Blanc Mont Ridge, was received today at the headquarters of the Metropolitan Boston Committee of the Massachusetts Women's Liberty Loan:

"You demanded an unconditional surrender. They gave it to you. You were willing to back them to the limit. And you did it. You did not fail them, when they were fighting. Don't do it now! Your boys showed that they could and would go the limit and they're still at it. If you want to be in the same class with your boys over there—subscribe today."

His personal subscription to Governor Morse, who developed each with the Victory Loan honor button and left to spread the campaign through Massachusetts and the rest of New England.

After his departure, the crowd was headed by Gordon March, Robert S. Wicks, William S. Chamberlain and Fred C. Cullen. More than fifty of the best band members in Boston were stationed at Liberty Court, and they were surrounded with questions by the thousands who assembled in the opening exercises of the campaign.

SERVICE MEN GIVE AID.

Salute from the 6th Engineers are among the hardest workers for the success of the Liberty Loan. The soldiers of the 6th Engineers are doing in uniforming the flag along the "Avenue Victorious" and also in the campaign. The engineers are to play powerful swiftness into the day.

While the war has come that Massachusetts has been the last to go over the top. The boys will be proud to see the flag and the light of the new power that it is claimed there can be seen as far away as New Hampshire.

Capital Reports Lay Drive Starts Off With Enthusiasm All Over U. S.

By International News Service.

Washington, April 21.—The fifth Liberty Loan—the Victory Loan—drive started off with a rush today. The morning was still very young when telegrams and telephone messages started to pour into the Treasury office and each told of quotas attained or over-subscribed. The fact that all over-subscriptions are to be turned back in the present loan did not seem to prevent making large over-subscriptions the object of workers all over the country.

Although the formal opening of the campaign was not scheduled until the 22d, many places the workers had been organized for a week and had been reporting subscriptions without waiting for any formal demonstration.

Parades and celebrations were being held to mark the formal opening of the drive.

In the national capital there were exercises on the Treasury steps, where Rear Admiral Sims, who as Vice-Admiral had charge of the American naval forces abroad, told of his overseas experiences. After which Mrs. E. B. Ziegler, better known as Billie, sold more than thousands of dollars' worth of notes.

Mrs. Higginson Winner of First Button Awarded in Liberty Loan Sale

Mrs. F. L. Higginson, chairman of the Women's Liberty Loan committee of New England, won the first button awarded in the Liberty Loan sale. It was pinned on her by Gov.

For services rendered in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign, Gov. Lexington was awarded the button. They are Grover C. Coffey, Robert Coffey, Everett Stone and Damon Vail.

UNCLE SAM AIDS DISABLED, SAYS EDWARDS

When the attention of Major-General Edwards was called to the announcement he had been honored for President of the United States, he threw himself back in his office chair and laughed.

"Why this is the pardonable enthusiasm of those stout-hearted lads with whom I fought," he remarked. "They are carrying their enthusiasm over here, that's all."

The general's statement in disabled soldiers as to what the government is doing for them and dignified the statement among the boys of the Victory Loan.

OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL.

"I want to call the attention of all readers, and especially F. D. men, to the fine thing that our government is doing for disabled men. It must be borne in mind that disability may result as much from disease as from wounds. The government offers to train these late vocations so that the disabled can compete on an equal footing with able-bodied men. This war has developed a new standard—that of manhood. Many of the most disabled were leaders, and so proven on the field of battle, and it only needs a little training to make them doctors and professors to command a higher wage than they received before entering the service, even though they are now more or less disabled."

"Don't allow yourself to be lured away or tempted by a temporary job or a wage that looks big to you and deny yourself the great opportunity that the government is now offering you."

"I do not believe that any of you will believe that that miserable man that is willing to make capital of your disabilities in order to escape future hard work and study and to live upon the charity of any man, is well-intentioned and unwise public. The public need have no concern for men that do not take advantage of this opportunity."

"Perhaps you may not have heard that Uncle Sam will train war disabled soldier, sailor or marine whose disability is more than 10 per cent. and who is unable to resume his former occupation. This training will be given in the school or workshop where it can be best secured. While the training is going on the man will receive compensation according to the degree of his disability and enough in addition to allow him $25 a month or the amount of his pay during his last month of service, whichever be the greater. Besides this, his dependents will receive the allowance to which they were entitled while the man was in service."

VETERANS MAKING PROGRESS.

"Many disabled men are now receiving training of all kinds in their various trades and clerical work up to the professions. The training which a man may receive is limited only by his own ambition. A few F. D. men and the best we had, and some of them badly shot to pieces, are getting along splendidly and are enthusiastic at their opportunity."

"Don't any of you lads fail to take advantage of this really sensible and generous action of our government. Full information about the provisions for disabled men will be given at the office of the Federal Bureau of Vocational Education, 1391 Little Building, or at any Home Service Office of the American Red Cross. Don't neglect it—jump at the opportunity."

The public need have no concern for men that do not take advantage of this opportunity."

"Perhaps you may not have heard that Uncle Sam will train war disabled soldier, sailor or marine whose disability is more than 10 per cent. and who is unable to resume his former occupation. This training will be given in the school or workshop where it can be best secured. While the training is going on the man will receive compensation according to the degree of his disability and enough in addition to allow him $25 a month or the amount of his pay during his last month of service, whichever be the greater. Besides this, his dependents will receive the allowance to which they were entitled while the man was in service."

VETERANS MAKING PROGRESS.

"Many disabled men are now receiving training of all kinds in their various trades and clerical work up to the professions. The training which a man may receive is limited only by his own ambition. A few F. D. men and the best we had, and some of them badly shot to pieces, are getting along splendidly and are enthusiastic at their opportunity."

"Don't any of you lads fail to take advantage of this really sensible and generous action of our government. Full information about the provisions for disabled men will be given at the office of the Federal Bureau of Vocational Education, 1391 Little Building, or at any Home Service Office of the American Red Cross. Don't neglect it—jump at the opportunity."

"Don't allow yourself to be lured away or tempted by a temporary job or a wage that looks big to you and deny yourself the great opportunity that the government is now offering you."

"I do not believe that any of you will believe that that miserable man that is willing to make capital of your disabilities in order to escape future hard work and study and to live upon the charity of any man, is well-intentioned and unwise public. The public need have no concern for men that do not take advantage of this opportunity."

R. NEGLECTING INSANE, CHARGE PHYSICIANS

Providence, April 21.—The General Assembly is criminally negligent in not providing for temporary insane patients who are said to die as a result of no provision for their care by the State or various cities, according to Dr. John W. P. English.

Efforts to have an elderly street woman cared for during her temporary insanity have aroused physicians who say for years they have tried to have such cases cared for by various institutions. The elderly street woman, according to the attending physician, is in a serious condition. It is further charged that a number of temporary insane patients are sent to the State Hospital for the Insane at Howard where they remain during their lifetime owing to the present entrance law.

Physicians say it is necessary to commit such patients to the State Hospital in lieu of no observation ward to any of the local hospitals. The General Assembly, it is claimed, has repeatedly refused to appropriate money for this purpose.

Hospital officials admit this state of affairs exist and say they are powerless to assist as no funds are provided by the General Assembly. Physicians say that while the General Assembly appropriates thousands of dollars to fight venereal disease, it neglects human beings are left to die through negligence.

HISTORY OF THE YANKEE DIVISION

By HARRY A. BENWELL

26TH IN DESPERATE FIGHT ON WOEYRE PLAIN

CHAPTER XXI.—Continued.

This is the twenty-second installment of the "History of the Yankee Division," which began in the Sunday Advertiser-American on March 30.

The next engagement of the division, was on September 26, when the Argonne-Meuse offensive opened. The Yankee Division made a diversion attack at this time in order to prevent the enemy from utilizing his artillery from Woeyre. While this movement was of practically small importance compared to the great offensive, it was one of the most intense struggles in which the division participated.

ADVANCE ON MARCHEVILLE.
For weeks the preparations for the Champagne offensive had been going quietly on, and the 26th was beginning to feel that they were to be overlooked. On the night of September 22, however, orders arrived. Company cooks were told to prepare two cooked meals and the officials were then called to a conference at divisional headquarters. It was then learned that the attack preparation would begin at 11:30 that night, and at 2:30 the following morning the offensive, commanded by Colonel Bearse, would start an attack against Marcheville. At the same hour the 10th Infantry would move against Riaville, over to the left.

The whole attack was in charge of Colonel Bearse, who went over the top with the men, accompanied by Colonel James E. Howard, his liaison officer, and Major E. M. Lewis, who commanded the attacking battalion. The two objectives were little villages, consisting of groups of houses on country roads. There is a road leading across the plain from Champeau to Marcheville, while a third road runs from Marcheville to Riaville. Crossroads there were trenches and around each town broad belts of wire.

It was still dark at 2:30, with blankets of smoke hanging over the positions, and concealing the men. The attacking parties worked up the trench standing. From there they penetrated to the main street, discovering a strong point and a little square where the road made a turn. Here machine-guns were established. In the meantime, the troops had been into the town, and the French machine-guns drove the Boche back to the main street. The enemy retreated up a trench toward the next town, and from there launched a counter attack preceded by a terrific artillery bombardment. This counter attack was made by the New Zealanders dropped back to the trench in front, as the enemy had been aimed to the south and was attempting to flank them.

ALMOST SURRENDERED.
The 26th Infantry knew nothing about this, and before they realized what was happening were menaced on three sides. They took up a position with their three machine-guns in the middle of the town, and began to stand off the Germans. They managed to drive the enemy from the town, and then their ammunition ran out, and they were again forced to fall back. Here they were again forced to fall back, and eventually fell back to the corner under an old mill from the east.

The members of the little party were in a precarious position when Lieutenant Lewis of the 10th Infantry, who had been sent to the town, came back with a message that the Boche were in the town, and that the 26th was being surrounded. The 26th was in a very bad position, and the members of the little party were in a very bad position.

ARTILLERY INEFFECTIVE.
Major Hanson saw the situation, and decided to make a diversionary attack. They took cover in two miles of time, at the corner of a trench which ran across the foot of the hill in front of Marcheville. It was then that the attack preparation would begin at 11:30 that night, and at 2:30 the following morning the offensive, commanded by Colonel Bearse, would start an attack against Marcheville. At the same hour the 10th Infantry would move against Riaville, over to the left.

At 12:30 the artillery ceased, and the attacking forces managed to make their way into the town, driving off a counter attack. Then the machine-guns held off the Boche, while the enemy artillery pounded the town. In the meantime, the other party was having trouble of its own. On the brow of the hill it ran into machine-guns, and immediately started to flank out the emplacement, which were mostly pill boxes. Colonel Bearse, Colonel Howard and Major Lewis, with about twenty men, were then runners, reached the western edge of the town, and the 26th was in a very bad position.

"Pep" and Persistence

EIGHTEEN months ago we all had "one of those talkfests" that do so much toward ironing the kinks out of a business. We all agreed we had the man above forty. Our retail executive, with a vision and wisdom far beyond his years, said: "We'll build a line of Young Men's Clothes so good they won't think of anybody else in connection with Good Clothes for Young Men."

And we did it.

And the models are here today, at least thirty, in the season's most splendid fabrics, made as only Morse can make clothes.

Camel Cigarettes

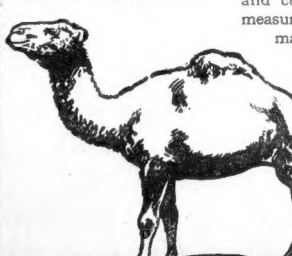

They Win You On Quality!

Your enjoyment of Camels will be very great because their refreshing flavor and fragrance and mellowness is so enticingly different. You never tasted such a cigarette! Bite is eliminated and there is a cheerful absence of any unpleasant cigarette aftertaste or any unpleasant cigarette odor!

Camels are made of an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos and are smooth and mild, but have that desirable full-body and certainly hand out satisfaction in generous measure. They are good all the way through and may be smoked liberally without tiring your taste. You will prefer this Camel blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!

Give Camels the stiffest tryout, then compare them with any cigarette in the world at any price for quality, flavor, satisfaction. No matter how liberally you smoke Camels they will not tire your taste!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY
Winston-Salem, N. C.

18 cents a package

Camels are sold everywhere in specially marked packages of 25 cigarettes or in packages of 100 cigarettes in a glassine-paper-covered case. We strongly recommend this case for the home or office supply or when you travel.

Praise for Attwill

Seventeen promoters and participants in the Boston Fish Trust have been found guilty BY A JURY of creating a monopoly to boost the prices of one of the most important necessities of life.

Thus approaches the end of a criminal prosecution of HIGH FINANCE which in years to come will be referred to as one of the outstanding cases in the public life and jurisprudence of Massachusetts. Only some miscarriage of justice that would permit the guilty to escape under cover of some legal technicality stands between the verdict of the twelve peers and final justice.

Attorney-General Attwill and his associates are to be highly commended. One familiar with politics or with the use of the power of wealth and social prestige can imagine the influence which doubtlessly was exerted upon this independent public official, whose record stands out as a beacon light to guide other faithful public servants on the path of duty.

We are told that the outcome of the case, viewed solely in the professional aspect, also is a great tribute to the legal ability and experience of Mr. Attwill. It is said that certain of his associates felt that the law was insufficient to secure conviction. In other words, that the derelict Legislature, in the more than 125 years of its existence, had not passed an anti-monopoly or anti-trust law adequate to protect the people from the exploitations of conniving and unscrupulous financiers. Yet under this seeming handicap, Mr. Attwill presented the case with such skill that the guilt of the trust men was established "beyond reasonable doubt."

The trial illustrates again the old truth, that "regulation" is practically impossible. The door is closed after the horse is gone. Occasionally—very rarely—the guilty are captured, convicted and punished. From this trial the State should take a lesson to itself. Complete control of this industry, so vital to the people, has been left in private hands altogether too long.

"It Is Respectable to Be American"

Hiram Johnson of California Says the Above Notion Should Be Revived. He Is Right.

Copyright, 1919, Star Company

Conditions do not suit Hiram Johnson, Senator from California, and when Johnson is not pleased with conditions he tells you so quite frankly. Here is a statement by Senator Johnson, recommended to your attention. He possesses the faculty of plain speaking:

"It is time for Americans to awake! Five months have passed since the armistice, since we did this job for which America entered the war.

"During all this time we've been afflicted with a mental far-etchedness which enabled us to see the filth and the possibilities of Finland and Poland, of Courland and Latvia, of Estonia and Lithuania, of Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, of Armenia and Syria, and even of the Helder of Arabia; but which prevented us from seeing and caring for the filth and problems of our own.

"Five months now after the end of the war we have a million and a half men in France and Germany; American boys in Siberia under Japanese command; American boys in northern Russia under English command; and what this means can be told by the fathers and mothers of Detroit from the letters of their sons.

"Five months after we've made the good fight and won, England is acquiring a world monopoly of oil, and has the cable and radio monopoly, and is reaching for the world's commerce; Japan, in an unscrupulous manner endeavoring to establish a foothold upon our border; Korea is in revolt, only held in subjection by ruthless cruelty; China is seething and is publicly notified by Japan that if she publishes the secret treaties which place her in subjection, Japan will punish her; and our demoralized soldiers ask only justice and work, and get neither; our ordinary business lags and because of government inaction.

Those that most earnestly appreciate the importance of the RIGHT KIND of peace agreement among nations, the kind that would suit America, will read with attention Senator Johnson's statement.

This country wants peace, would like to have it without fighting, but is willing to fight for it if necessary, as has just been shown. This nation does not intend, however, to give up any part of its own rights, including its powers under the Monroe Doctrine, to prevent European nations from extending their quarrels to this continent. The United States does not intend to be put in a position to be ordered about the globe by other nations or a majority of other nations.

The citizens of this country do not intend that anybody on the other side shall agree, in case France, England and Italy order it, to conscript American citizens and send them to fight in Armenia, or Russia, or Kamchatka, or to straighten out the problems of the Hedjaz of Arabia.

There is enough over here for the people to attend to. It should be sufficient for the United States to say, 'We approve peace, we want it. We intend, as we have proved, to make any reasonable sacrifice in behalf of peace. But we do not intend to exchange American sovereignty for European partnership. We intend that only AMERICANS shall have the power to conscript AMERICANS. And that settles it.'

The Gilt-Edge Opportunity At Your Door

HER NAME is Josephine.

AND SHE says she loves me.

AND IF I don't print her letters.

SHE'LL quit loving me.

AND WON'T read me any more.

AND SHE says she has a husband.

AND HIS name is August.

AND HE'S in the liquor business.

AND THAT the first of July.

WILL BE the end of August.

THIS YEAR.

AND IT may be an old joke.

AND HER complaint is.

THAT SOME time last fall.

HER RENT was raised.

AND THE liquor business.

WAS DOING very well.

AND SHE paid it.

AND A couple of weeks ago.

ON THE first of April.

HER LANDLORD told her.

THEY WERE going to decorate.

AND PUT in telephones.

AND BECAUSE of that.

THE RENT would be raised.

AND A week later.

THE MAN came for the rent.

AND SHE asked about the phone.

AND HE said.

THAT THE telephone company.

COULDN'T PUT any in.

FOR ANOTHER two years.

AND BEING a woman.

SHE TALKED back to the man.

BUT SHE had to pay the rent.

WITH THE latest increase.

AND WHEN she had paid it.

THE MAN said.

THAT ON the first of July.

IT WOULD be raised again.

ANOTHER four dollars.

AND THEY had changed their minds.

ABOUT DECORATING the place.

I THANK you.

BECAUSE PRICES were so high.

THEY COULDN'T afford it.

AND WHAT with the rent.

GOING UP all the time.

AND THE first of July.

BEING THE end of August.

IN HIS present job.

SHE DOESN'T know what to do.

AND SHE wants to know.

IF I don't think.

IT WOULD be a good idea.

FOR PRESIDENT Wilson.

AND THE Peace Conference.

TO ALL come over here.

WHEN THEY'RE through in Paris.

BECAUSE SHE says.

THAT THE way she feels.

AND FROM what she knows.

OF THE of the tenants.

IN HER neighborhood.

Sergeant Jesse M. Bailey of Providence was one of the best football players at Brown University. He proved a star on the gridiron of war, too. He returned on the Pacific with a D. E. C., Croix de Guerre and five citations.

LIBERTY LOAN!

By CHARLES MILLER, aged 11, Dorchester.

People of America,
It is our present duty to subscribe for Liberty Bonds. Are you going to sit back and say, "I bought one," and be as the Romans. They got lazy after conquering the world and let other people do their work. When a nation does that she can't keep up very long. Well, that is what happened to the Romans. Our boys went bravely across for US. Now, tell me, who told them to "butt in" with France's war? Didn't Lafayette help us in the Revolutionary war? Now we owe a debt to France we can never repay. If not for France's bravery we would probably not be here today.

I am sure that if I were only old enough I would be in France. For I am only eleven years. I wish I could push Father Time. Some boys died for us while fighting, but many are left on this earth. Are you going to be selfish enough to back out of the little thing our country asks of us? Our boys went across and they did their share. Now we have better do ours. Let me help you. I wish I could home quick! They've been away for nearly two years and are longing to get home. Now can't you possibly LEND? Imagine yourself a soldier and think of all the hardships you went under. Now won't you LEND? Don't leave him over there! Just say, "I don't care, it isn't my boy." Don't have that mean disposition. "I'll tell you a story my school-master, Mr. Steady, told some

Long-Lived Birds

Some birds live to a great age. The age of ninety is known to have been reached by a gray parrot, and there are many statements of the age of the parrot family having lived for over a century. The raven also is credited with having reached one hundred years. The domestic goose is another long-lived bird. Many instances are known of geese attaining forty years. The ordinary domestic fowl is seldom allowed to die of old age, but in some country places old hens that have been made pets are to be seen. They are allowed to roam until they are ten or twelve years old, long previously having ceased to lay.

BUYING THE THINGS ONE CANNOT AFFORD

By Winifred Black

WELL, I bought the blue waist with the silver beads on it after all.

I really ought not to have bought it. It was more than I could afford and I really didn't need it at all. But there it was in the window, as blue as a blue sky in April after the March storms have passed. As light as a feather and soft and feathery about it that made me feel pleasant and happy to look at it.

"That's my waist!" I said to myself, the minute my eyes looked upon it. "But of course I'm not going to buy it."

But of course I did. I went by the window three or four times, all the time saying to myself: "I really would like that waist—if I could afford it. But I can't—so that's the end of it." And there it is this very minute, in the box in my closet, all wrapped up in soft white tissue paper, and just to think of it makes me smile.

This afternoon some one is coming to see me, some one that I know when I was very happy and laughed a great deal, and knew a great many sons, and always had flowers to wear and never worried about what was going to become of them I loved when I am gone. I think I bought the waist just for purpose to wear for this special occasion—that just for once I'd like to look young and light-hearted and gay again! Just for once I'd like to feel as that waist looks—I can't afford it.

I wonder what the things are that we really can afford in this world. Sometimes it is hard to decide, isn't it?

Things One Can't Afford
It is a short journey we take—a short one and sometimes a troubled one—through the things we call life. What's the use of talking it at all if we are never going to have any of the things we really want, just because we think we can't afford them?

I took an hour the other day that I couldn't afford at all. I had so much to do that I didn't know what to do first—so I didn't do anything. I just picked up a foolish habit, and got a box of candy, and put on a nice soft gown and curled up in the corner of the couch and read and ate candy. And all the time somebody was playing the piano in the next room—a little, foolish, lilting tune, and it sounded good to me, and I was somehow happy. I am glad I stole that hour I couldn't afford, for it did me a whole lot of good.

I could not afford to know the woman I met on the train. She really wasn't quite a nice woman, but she was really easy to see that the minute you looked at her her face was rather hard, and her hair was not at all the color it ought to be, and her clothes were really old young for her, and she really wore a great many—too many—rings. Her voice, too, was not quite what it should be. But, oh, there was something in her eyes—a lonely look, friendless and hopeless and desperate, and it called me right across the aisle!

Lessons in Tolerance
I made an excuse and went and talked with her, and before the day was done we were friends, and I am glad of it. I think her eyes weren't quite so desperate when she said goodbye. And as for me, I learned a lesson in tolerance and human charity that I never would have learned if I hadn't started that friendship with the woman I couldn't afford to know.

Buy the Victory Bonds with earnest realization of what the loan means.

This is a serious period in the history of the world, and every nation.

This Victory Loan, to which you are asked to subscribe, is the test of national loyalty.

You may hear many reasons, sound and selfish, why you should buy Victory Bonds.

They are the best bonds that have ever been offered anywhere. Before the war, when the country was not as rich as it is today, 4 per cent. bonds sold above 100.

The 4½ per cent. bonds offered today will sell for 100.

The banks will want them. They carry exemption from income tax when transferred into a 3½ per cent. bond.

Tax exempt bonds bearing only 2 per cent. sold above par, when there was no certainty as to how many billions of pounds would be required to meet the needs of the United States, including the outstanding Treasury certificates.

And Europe owes us more than ten billions, or half of our whole debt.

The bonds will be secure when needed and safe, why you should buy a FIRST mortgage, and a LAST mortgage on this great country, operated on each side by wide oceans from the disturbances of Europe and of Asia.

No such bond as the one offered today ever was offered in any nation at any time in the world.

To buy these bonds, keeping them for yourself, your children, for the absolutely certain profit that will come in the rise above par, is common sense.

But there is something in this Victory Loan infinitely more important than certain profit. The country will require the faith of the people of this country in their kind of government.

The present world disturbance is no passing agitation, no mere unimportant episode, but a crisis that will require the faith of the people of this country in their kind of government.
